

Sanquo

Terms of Service & Business Policies

Effective Date: 30 April 2026 | Version 1.0

Section 2: Conditions of Use

These Conditions of Use govern the behaviour and responsibilities of all individuals who access or interact with the Sanquo platform. By using Sanquo, you agree to conduct yourself in accordance with the standards set out in this Section. These conditions exist to ensure that Sanquo remains a safe, fair, and trustworthy environment for every customer, seller, and partner who is part of our community.

2.1 User Eligibility

Access to Sanquo and the ability to create a registered account are subject to the following eligibility requirements, which exist to ensure that all users possess the legal capacity to enter into binding agreements under Vietnamese civil law.

To register an account independently, you must be at least eighteen (18) years of age. Users between the ages of sixteen (16) and seventeen (17) may register solely with the verifiable consent of a parent or legal guardian. In such cases, the consenting adult assumes full legal responsibility for all activities, transactions, and obligations arising from the minor's use of the Platform. Sanquo reserves the right to request proof of age or parental consent at any time and to suspend or terminate any account where eligibility cannot be confirmed.

All users, regardless of age, must possess full legal capacity to enter into binding contracts as defined by applicable Vietnamese law. Users registering on behalf of a corporate entity or business must be duly authorised representatives with the legal authority to bind that entity to these Terms.

At the time of registration — and at all subsequent points of interaction with the Platform — users are required to provide accurate, current, and complete information. The deliberate provision of false or misleading registration information constitutes a material breach of these Terms and grounds for immediate account termination. These eligibility requirements apply equally to guest users who conduct transactions on Sanquo without holding a registered account.

2.2 Account Responsibility

The security and integrity of your Sanquo account is a shared concern — and your individual responsibility is paramount. The following obligations apply to every registered user of the Platform.

The User is solely responsible for maintaining the strict confidentiality of their login credentials, including their username, password, and any associated authentication information. Sanquo strongly recommends the use of a unique, complex password and advises against sharing credentials with any third party under any circumstances.

The User is responsible for all activities, transactions, communications, and obligations conducted under their account — whether or not those actions were personally authorised by the User. This responsibility is absolute: if a third party gains access to your account as a result of your failure to safeguard your credentials, Sanquo shall not be liable for any resulting loss, damage, or liability.

The User is responsible for notifying Sanquo immediately upon becoming aware of any unauthorised access to, or suspected compromise of, their account. Prompt notification enables Sanquo to take protective action; failure to notify in a timely manner may limit the remedies available. Notifications must be submitted through Sanquo's official customer support channel.

The User is responsible for ensuring that the contact information associated with their account — including email address and phone number — remains accurate and up to date at all times. Sanquo relies on this information to communicate order confirmations, security alerts, and policy updates; the Platform cannot be held responsible for failures in communication resulting from outdated contact details.

Users may not share, transfer, sell, or assign their account to any third party. Each individual or entity is permitted to hold only one registered account on Sanquo. The operation of multiple accounts for the purpose of circumventing platform policies, manipulating promotional mechanisms, or evading a prior suspension or termination is strictly prohibited.

2.3 Prohibited Activities

Sanquo is committed to maintaining a platform that is secure, honest, and fair for all participants. The following activities are strictly prohibited and constitute serious violations of these Terms. Users found to have engaged in any prohibited activity will be subject to immediate enforcement action, up to and including permanent account termination and referral to the relevant Vietnamese authorities.

- Fraudulent Conduct: Submitting false or fictitious orders, engaging in payment fraud or chargeback abuse, impersonating another user, seller, or Sanquo representative, or otherwise obtaining goods, services, or financial benefit through deception.
- Cyber Attacks and System Interference: Attempting to gain unauthorised access to Sanquo's systems, servers, or databases; probing, scanning, or testing the vulnerability of the Platform's infrastructure; or introducing malware, viruses, ransomware, or any other malicious code or software.
- Unauthorised Data Collection: Using automated tools, bots, scrapers, or crawlers to extract, harvest, or replicate data from the Platform without prior written consent from Sanquo. This includes product listings, pricing data, user information, and any other content presented on the Platform.
- Counterfeit and Prohibited Goods: Listing, purchasing, promoting, or facilitating the sale of counterfeit, stolen, or legally prohibited items, including goods that infringe the intellectual property rights of any third party or whose sale is restricted or banned under Vietnamese law.
- Harassment and Abusive Conduct: Sending or posting threatening, abusive, defamatory, discriminatory, or otherwise harmful communications directed at other users, sellers, or Sanquo staff through any channel available on the Platform.
- Spam and Reputation Manipulation: Posting fabricated reviews, artificially inflating or deflating seller or product ratings, engaging in coordinated inauthentic behaviour, or taking any other action designed to manipulate the Platform's reputation, search results, or recommendation systems.
- Violation of Applicable Law: Engaging in any activity that violates Vietnamese law or applicable international regulations, including but not limited to laws governing consumer protection, data privacy, anti-money laundering, intellectual property, and e-commerce.
- Circumvention of Platform Systems: Conducting commercial transactions off-platform to avoid Sanquo's fee structures; using unauthorised third-party payment methods not supported by the Platform; or exploiting promotional offers, discount mechanisms, or loyalty programmes in bad faith or in a manner inconsistent with their intended purpose.

This list is illustrative and not exhaustive. Sanquo reserves the right to determine, at its reasonable discretion, whether any conduct not explicitly listed above constitutes a violation of the spirit of these Terms and to take appropriate enforcement action accordingly.

2.4 Intellectual Property

All intellectual property on the Sanquo platform is protected, and Sanquo asserts its ownership rights fully and without reservation.

The Sanquo name, logo, trademarks, service marks, product imagery, interface design, visual identity, written content, software, and all other materials published on or through the Platform are the exclusive property of Sanquo or its duly licensed content providers. These assets are protected under the intellectual property laws of Vietnam and applicable international conventions, including copyright, trademark, and trade dress law.

Users are granted a limited, non-exclusive, non-transferable, and revocable licence to access and use the Platform solely for personal, non-commercial shopping purposes. This licence does not constitute a transfer of any ownership rights and does not permit any use of Sanquo's intellectual property beyond what is expressly authorised under these Terms.

No content from the Platform — including product images, brand assets, descriptive text, pricing information, or interface elements — may be reproduced, distributed, publicly displayed, modified, adapted, or used for any commercial purpose without the prior written consent of Sanquo. Unauthorised use of Sanquo's intellectual property constitutes infringement and may result in civil or criminal legal action.

Where users voluntarily submit content to the Platform — including product reviews, ratings, profile images, or other user-generated material — they grant Sanquo a perpetual, royalty-free, worldwide, sub-licensable licence to use, display, reproduce, and distribute that content in connection with the operation, promotion, and improvement of the Platform. Users represent and warrant that any content they submit does not infringe the intellectual property rights of any third party.

If you believe that any content appearing on Sanquo infringes your intellectual property rights, you are entitled to submit a formal takedown request through Sanquo's designated intellectual property complaints channel. Sanquo will review all such requests in good faith and take appropriate action in accordance with applicable law.

2.5 Termination of Service

Sanquo maintains the right to suspend or terminate user accounts where conduct is inconsistent with these Terms. This right is exercised objectively, on the basis of established violations, and in a manner proportionate to the severity and nature of the breach.

Sanquo reserves the right to suspend or permanently terminate a user's account at any time, with or without prior notice, where there are reasonable grounds to believe that a violation of these Terms has occurred or is occurring. Specific grounds for enforcement action include, but are not limited to: confirmed fraudulent activity or payment abuse; repeated or wilful violations of platform policies; harassment or abusive conduct directed at other users, sellers, or Sanquo staff; the provision of false or materially misleading registration information; and involvement in the listing, purchase, or facilitation of prohibited goods or transactions.

In cases involving serious violations — including but not limited to fraud, cybercrime, or the trafficking of counterfeit or prohibited goods — Sanquo reserves the right to effect immediate account termination without warning. In such circumstances, Sanquo may also refer the matter and any relevant evidence to the competent Vietnamese law enforcement or regulatory authorities.

Where a violation is determined to be minor in nature or constitutes a first offence, Sanquo may, at its discretion, issue a formal written warning and afford the user a reasonable opportunity to remedy the breach before proceeding to suspension or termination. The issuance of a warning does not limit Sanquo's right to take more severe action in the event of a subsequent or continuing violation.

Upon termination of an account — whether initiated by Sanquo or voluntarily by the user — the former account holder will lose access to their account, order history, saved information, and any accumulated loyalty benefits, platform credits, or promotional entitlements, except to the extent that applicable Vietnamese law requires otherwise. Outstanding obligations incurred prior to termination, including unpaid amounts or pending dispute resolutions, remain enforceable.

A user whose account has been suspended or terminated by Sanquo may submit a formal appeal by contacting Sanquo's customer support team within thirty (30) calendar days of receiving notice of the enforcement action. Sanquo will review all appeals in good faith and respond within a reasonable timeframe. Appeals submitted after the thirty-day window will not be considered.

Sanquo reserves the right to decline re-registration to any individual or entity whose account was previously terminated on the grounds of a serious or repeated violation of these Terms.