Section 4: Return Policy

Sanquo's Return Policy is designed to give customers the confidence to shop freely, knowing that a clear, fair, and transparent resolution process exists if a purchase does not meet their expectations. This Section sets out the conditions under which returns are accepted, the timeframes within which requests must be initiated, the resolution options available, the allocation of return shipping costs, and the inspection process that governs every return. Customers are encouraged to read this Section carefully before initiating a return request.

4.1 Return Eligibility

Not all items are eligible for return, and not all conditions of return are equivalent. To be accepted, a returned item must satisfy each of the following criteria without exception.

The item must be unused, unworn, and in its original condition — entirely free from stains, odours, alterations, or any visible sign of wear or use. All original tags, labels, and hang-tags must remain intact and securely attached; removal of any tag, for any reason, renders the item ineligible for return. Where applicable, the item must be returned in its original packaging, including garment bags, shoeboxes, or branded pouches. A valid proof of purchase — either the order confirmation email or the order number as recorded in the customer's Sanquo account — must accompany every return.

Returns are accepted in two defined scenarios. First, where the item is defective, damaged upon arrival, or materially different from its product listing description — circumstances attributable to Sanquo or the seller. Second, where the customer wishes to exchange the item for a different size or colour, subject to stock availability at the time the exchange is processed.

The following item categories are non-returnable under any circumstance, regardless of condition or reason: intimate apparel, including underwear, lingerie, and swimwear; earrings and pierced jewellery; and any item explicitly designated as "Final Sale" or "Non-Returnable" at the time of purchase. Items that have been customised, altered, or tailored to a customer's individual specifications are likewise non-returnable, unless the defect or discrepancy is directly attributable to Sanquo or the seller.

Important: Returns submitted without a prior Return Merchandise Authorisation (RMA) number issued by Sanquo will not be accepted. Unauthorised returns will be declined upon arrival at the returns facility and returned to the sender at the sender's expense. Customers must initiate all return requests through the Sanquo Platform or by contacting customer support before dispatching any item.

4.2 Return Window

The return window is the period within which a return request must be initiated. All return windows are measured from the date of confirmed delivery — as recorded by the carrier's tracking system or evidenced by the customer's signed acknowledgement of receipt — and not from the date of purchase or dispatch.

The standard return window is seven (7) calendar days from the date of confirmed delivery. This window applies to all preference-based returns, including size exchanges and colour exchanges. For items that arrive defective, damaged, or materially different from their product listing description, an extended return window of fourteen (14) calendar days from the date of confirmed delivery applies.

The return window runs on calendar days, not business days, and is not extended by public holidays. Customers are strongly advised to inspect their order promptly upon receipt to ensure that any issues are identified and reported within the applicable window. Return requests initiated after the relevant window has closed will not be accepted, except where Vietnamese consumer protection law expressly requires otherwise.

In the event of a disputed delivery date — for example, where the carrier's tracking record is inconsistent with the customer's account of when the item was received — Sanquo will conduct a reasonable investigation using all available evidence, including carrier records and customer communications, and will determine the applicable return window on that basis. Customers in such circumstances are advised to contact Sanquo support without delay.

4.3 Refund vs. Store Credit

Upon successful completion of the return and inspection process, Sanquo offers customers a choice between two resolution options: a monetary refund to the original payment method, or store credit issued as Sanquo platform vouchers. Neither option is presented as preferable; the choice belongs entirely to the customer and will be honoured without condition.

Monetary refunds are returned to the payment instrument used at the time of the original purchase. E-wallet refunds are typically processed within two (2) to three (3) business days. For orders originally paid via Cash on Delivery, monetary refunds are issued by bank transfer to the customer's nominated account; customers must provide their banking details to Sanquo's support team when initiating the return.

Store credit is issued as Sanquo platform vouchers with a value equal to one hundred percent (100%) of the returned item's purchase price, with no administrative deduction. Store credit is available for use immediately upon issuance and carries a validity period of twelve (12) months from the date of issue. As an additional incentive, customers who elect store credit will receive a five percent (5%) bonus on the credited amount — for example, a return valued at 500,000 VND would yield 525,000 VND in platform vouchers — subject to Sanquo's prevailing promotional terms at the time of the return.

Where a return is initiated due to a defect, damage, or a listing inaccuracy that is attributable to Sanquo or the seller, the customer is unconditionally entitled to a full monetary refund with no deduction of any kind. In such circumstances, store credit remains available as an alternative at the customer's election, inclusive of the bonus credit incentive.

Please note: the five percent (5%) bonus store credit is a promotional incentive and is subject to change. Customers will be informed of the applicable bonus rate at the time of RMA approval. The core store credit value — equivalent to 100% of the purchase price — is guaranteed regardless of promotional terms.

4.4 Return Shipping Fees

The allocation of return shipping costs depends on the reason for the return. Sanquo is committed to communicating all applicable costs clearly and in advance, so that no customer is faced with an unexpected charge at any stage of the return process.

Where a return is initiated because the item is defective, damaged upon arrival, or materially different from its product listing description — circumstances attributable to Sanquo or the seller — Sanquo will bear the full cost of return shipping. A prepaid return shipping label will be issued to the customer electronically upon RMA approval. No shipping cost will be borne by the customer in such cases.

Where a return is initiated for reasons of personal preference — including a size exchange, a change of mind, or a colour preference — the cost of return shipping is borne by the customer. In such cases, Sanquo strongly recommends using a tracked shipping service. Sanquo accepts no liability for items lost or damaged in transit where the customer has not used a trackable delivery method.

The original outbound shipping fee paid at checkout is non-refundable in all cases, with the sole exception of returns resulting from a defect, damage, or listing error attributable to Sanquo or the seller, in which case the outbound shipping fee will be refunded in full alongside the item's purchase price.

Where a customer elects store credit as their resolution for a preference-based return, Sanquo may, at its discretion, offer a partial or full return shipping subsidy incorporated into the store credit package. The terms of any such subsidy will be communicated explicitly to the customer at the time of RMA approval, before the customer is required to dispatch the item. No shipping fee commitments will be made after the return has been sent.

4.5 Inspection Process

Every item returned to Sanquo is subject to a mandatory quality inspection conducted by Sanquo's dedicated returns team. The inspection process is objective, documented, and governed by the eligibility criteria set out in Section 4.1. Its purpose is to ensure that all returns are assessed consistently and fairly, and that both customers and sellers are protected against misuse of the return mechanism.

Upon receipt of the returned package at Sanquo's designated returns facility, receipt will be logged within one (1) business day and an acknowledgement email will be dispatched to the customer confirming that the item has been received and that the inspection process has commenced. Customers should retain their return tracking number until this acknowledgement is received.

The inspection will assess the item against the full set of return eligibility criteria: original condition, absence of signs of wear or use, intact tags and packaging, and the presence of valid proof of purchase. Inspection is typically completed within three (3) to five (5) business days of receipt. The customer will be notified of the outcome — approval or rejection — by email upon the conclusion of the inspection.

If the inspection confirms that the item satisfies all return eligibility criteria, the applicable refund or store credit will be processed within two (2) business days of the approval determination. If the inspection determines that the item does not meet the eligibility criteria — for example, because the item shows evidence of wear, tags have been removed, or original packaging is absent — the return will be rejected. The customer will receive a written notification setting out the specific grounds for rejection, and the item will be returned to the customer at the customer's expense.

Sanquo reserves the right to document the condition of all returned items upon receipt, including photographic records, for the purposes of quality assurance, seller accountability, and dispute resolution. These records are retained in accordance with Sanquo's data retention policy.

In the event that a customer disputes the outcome of an inspection, the matter may be escalated to Sanquo's customer resolution team within seven (7) calendar days of receiving the rejection notification. Sanquo will conduct a secondary review — taking into account all available evidence, including photographic records and carrier documentation — and will communicate the final outcome within five (5) business days of the escalation being received. The outcome of the secondary review is final.
